Advertising in THE LEDGER is a salesman that works early and late. He is talking to people long before your store is open and long after your store is closed.

TWELVE hundred beds at a penny a night each are offered to London's homeless poor in a new Salvation Army shelter, erected on the banks of the Thames near Blackfriars Bridge. Just think of it! twelve hundred beds at a penny a night for the "homeless poor" in one city in England—a country that is so prosperous under the blessings of Democratic Free-trade!

"THIS is a Democratic Administration," says The Kentucky Journal. Well, yes; and it is on that account, probably, that we witness the spectacle of a high-salaried railroad lawyer filling the office of Attorney General and legal adviser of the Administration which was elected, among other things, to smash the trusts. Do let us know what you would think of a Republican Administration under such circumstances.

OUR contemporary The Times—democratic has conceptions its because somebody in Flandersburg sent to Ohio to have printing done. Well, brother, you ought to give advice and then blame people for taking it. The burden of your song is for the whole American people to buy the goods that England makes, and you shouldn't kick if the people of your own U. S. choose to place their orders with others than your home manufacturers and mechanics.

"THIS is a Democratic Administration," says The Kentucky Journal. And then it prints as its top editorial the following story on the Irish: It is rumored that Secretary GRESHAM has ordered Ex-Confederates, Irishmen, and by the grace of HARRISON, Minister to Chili, to leave the Legation forthwith, turning over the archives to Secretary McCREARY. Thus does GRESHAM win his way to the popular heart and furnish another proof that GRESHAM knows a good man when he sees him.

Yes; this is a Democratic Administration.

A TELEGRAM has just been received in this city stating that William P. Chambers of Paris had last night. He was a native of this country and has many relatives here.

LEVIATHANS.

The Navies of the World Before the Great Metropolis.

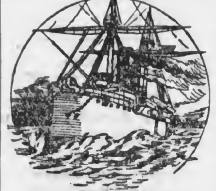

A Scene of Splendor Never Before Witnessed Since Time Began.

The Fleet Welcomed With Loud Huzzas and the Booming of Cannon From the Forts. The Great War Ships Fled to Their Places of Anchorage.

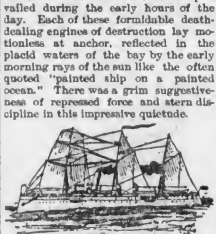

QUARANTINE, S. L., April 27.—The phantom war ships which sailed in out of the mist Tuesday were bright and majestic realities in the glorious sunshine Wednesday morning. The only element wanting to insure the triumphant spectacular success of the great naval parade was supplied by the perfect weather. Not a trace was left of the steel gray clouds and rain and fog of Tuesday.

Clear skies, bright sunlight and breezy breezes gave a setting to a panoramic scene whose beauty and suggestiveness have never been surpassed. In the sharp clear light of the early morning every distinctive feature of the great warships stood out in bold relief, anchored in two great columns, stretched over the whole surface of the bay, the vessels of each of the ten nationalities represented could be distinguished at a glance.

THE U. S. CRUISER ATLANTIC. Bert, or the sharp lines of the crack American cruiser, Atlanta, with her formidable Krupp guns, offset by the squat form outlines of the Dutch Van Speyk, which again contrasted with the graceful build of the swift Argentine Nuevo de Julio, and the massive armament of the British battleship Agamemnon.

THE BANGOR (U. S.) But it did not last long. As the morning wore on and the preparation for breaking another anchor began, the scene changed to one of brisk animation and life. The bay became alive with pleasure craft of every description, and the patrol boats had a difficult task to keep the anchorage ground clear of intruders and permit the formation of columns in which the states procession, the vessels were to appear by, and to move up the Hudson river to their assigned stations, and there to await Thursday's review.

THE BALTIMORE (U. S.) It was shortly after 9 o'clock when Admiral Gherardi's flagship gave the preliminary signal to break anchor and sail into the bay.

The starboard, or right-hand column, looking toward the bows of the vessels commanded by the British admiral, Sir John Hopson, consisted of foreign vessels in this order: British—Blake, Australian, Magdalen and Tartar; Russian—Disraeli, Donskoi, General Admiral and Pravda; French—Arctique, Rocouart and Jean Bart; Italian—Bianca and Rea.

BEINA REGINA and NEURA ESPANZA.

Brasils—Agulhas, Trident and Republia.

The port, or left hand column, commanded by Admiral Gherardi, consisted of the American fleet, with some of the visitors thrown into the balance, in the following order: American—Philadelphia, Newark, Atlanta, San Francisco, Hancock, Baltimore, Baltimore, Chicago, Yorktown, Charleston, Vanderbilt, Neuro de Julio; Kaiser—Van Speyk; Germany—Kaiser, Augusta and Seidler, with the American Monitor Mantamoh bringing up the rear.

THE DOLPHIN (U. S.) The start was made promptly at 9:45—so that thousands of spectators who had gathered to witness the spectacle from the Navesink highlands and the heights of Fort Washington and other points of advantage of Staten Island had hardly taken up position before the guns of Fort Hamilton boomed their welcome to the advancing fleet, steaming neck and neck.

The two admirals and their flagships led the way at a rate of between eight and nine knots an hour. A brisk breeze curled the waters into white-capped breakers, the magnificent ships glided along so smoothly that their motion scarcely seemed perceptible. A cable and a half length (500 yards) separated each ship with the other and the distance was maintained with absolute precision. The contrast presented by the snow-white American fleet and the dark-hulled foreigner was very perceptible as they moved along side by side, each highlighting the effects of the other.

THE BRAZILIAN FLAGSHIP AGULHAS. The two schools of naval architecture for nearly all the ships in the fleet of American built were of English construction were strongly marked and every patriot felt within a glow of pride that the new navy of the United States did not suffer by the comparison.

The time occupied in passing the forts was exactly half an hour. The navy ships, after passing the Narrows, entered the upper bay, and the fleet of excursion steamers and yachts and big boats left in and became a volunteer escort.

THE TREASURE (U. S.) The most striking feature of the cloudless sky. Flags of the different nations, and even the names of the ships, were clearly discernible from either shore.

MILLIONS IN SIGHT. The richest Gold Strike Since 1853 at Central Point, Ore.

PORTLAND, ORE., April 26.—A special to the Oregonian from Central Point says: "The richest gold strike in Southern Oregon since the days of '99 has been made within two miles of this place within the last week. The entire country is wild with excitement. If the present exodus to the hills continues, the town will be depopulated before the end of the week. A reporter Wednesday visited the scene of the lodeshocker strike, mentioned a few days ago. The rich pay streak continues to grow richer, and they are taking out gold in fabulous quantities. Within two hours Wednesday morning more than five hundred dollars in gold was taken from the ledge.

This mine is in the famous Willow Spring district, which has a gold-producing history dating back to 1850. Within a radius of a mile from the lodeshocker claim no less than six rich pockets are being mined. From 500 to 800 was taken out of each Wednesday by a single miner.

One ledge contains pay streaks showing pieces of gold as large as peas. The main body of the lode is of free milling rock that will run 800 to the ton. It is estimated that there was $1,000,000 in sight in the Willow Springs district Wednesday.

After the Adolphines. CANTON, O., April 26.—Order Adolphine, after the style of the Iron hall, is about to collapse. The directors have commenced proceedings for dissolution. Its only footing was in Alliance, where it had two hundred members and over $1,000 in cash and no debts. The members will realize more than they invested.

FATHER—"You will chew tobacco, you young scamp, will you?" SON—"I could not help it, pa. It was Kentucky Seal, and was so good."
